Program Objectives & Overview

CPA Exam Review:

The Becker CPA Exam review course is designed to fit the student's lifestyle, work schedule and preferred learning style. It includes comprehensive learning tools such as live and recorded lectures, textbooks, multiple-choice questions, simulations, practice exams, study planner and much more. These learning tools have helped over one million candidates pass the CPA Exam.

The CPA Exam Review consists of four course parts that align to the sections of the CPA Exam - Auditing, Business, Financial and Regulation. Students may purchase a study package containing all four parts or purchase individual course parts. All course sections include a user license to access to Becker's online course software for at least 24-months, beginning on the date of first login to the course software.

Morgan offers the CPA exam review courses in the following study formats for both business to business and business to consumer channels, with access to attend supplemental Live or Live Online lectures determined by the study package purchased:

- Live – (applicable in specific cities) The supplemental live classroom lectures mirror the lectures in our self-study software but provide a structured schedule and live personal interaction with instructors and peers. Students can ask questions, get study tips and instructor support, along with accessing all the study tools available in the self-study software.
- Live Online – Morgan's Live Online course lectures provide the same structured schedule and real-time access to instructors, but in a virtual classroom format available anywhere in the world with reliable internet access.
- Self-Study – All course purchases include a license to access to Becker's self-study online course software. The online self-study format provides a totally portable, multimedia-based format with engaging pre-recorded lectures by Becker's national faculty, multiple choice questions, simulations, and practice exams, as well as Becker's Adapt2U Technology, powered by Sana Labs award-winning A.I. technology, which provides personalized review sessions that help you make the most of your valuable study time.

Becker's CPA Exam Review courses are not required to be eligible to take the CPA exam. While students may opt to complete all available course modules, this program is designed to help students identify and focus on areas where supplemental study will increase likelihood of passing the CPA exam. Therefore, Morgan does not issue course grades, track academic progress nor award a degree or diploma at course completion.

CPA Review Course Description

Auditing (AUD)

This course prepares students to pass the Auditing and Attestation section of the CPA Exam. Topics cover all subjects related to auditing, including audit reports and procedures, generally accepted auditing standards, attestation and other engagements, and government auditing, and professional responsibilities. Supplemental Live and Live Online lectures are available within select CPA Exam review packages.

Business (BEC)

This course prepares students to pass the Business Environment and Concepts section of the CPA Exam. Content focuses on general business topics such as corporate governance, economics, financial management, information technology, and operations management, including managerial accounting. Supplemental Live and Live Online lectures are available within select CPA Exam review packages.

Financial (FIN)

This course prepares students to pass the Financial Accounting and Reporting section of the CPA Exam. Content covers generally accepted accounting principles in the United States (GAAP) that affects business enterprises, not-for profit organizations and government entities, and the differences between IFRS and U.S. GAAP. Supplemental Live and Live Online lectures are available within select CPA Exam review packages

Regulation (REG)

This course prepares students to pass the Regulation section of the CPA Exam. Topics include federal taxation of individuals, property transactions and entities; ethics, professional and legal responsibilities; federal tax procedures and business law, as well as skills needed to apply that knowledge. Supplemental Live and Live Online lectures are available within select CPA Exam review packages.

Eligibility to Sit for the CPA Exam:

The CPA exam and credential are administered by the Association of International Certified Professional Accountants (AICPA). Each CPA jurisdiction, as determined by the National Association of State Boards of Accounting (NASBA), establishes its own requirements to be eligible to earn the CPA credential. It is the CPA Exam candidate's responsibility to determine whether the state mandated requirements to earn a CPA credential have been met. These requirements may vary by jurisdiction and include, but are not limited to, degree and course hour minimums, residency, and work experience requirements. CPA Exam review courses are not required to be eligible to sit for the exam and are solely intended to help a student prepare for the exam through supplemental review material.

Learn more about your state's CPA Exam eligibility requirements by visiting: <https://www.thiswaytocpa.com/licensure/state-requirements/>

California state university; collaboration with Morgan International:

Morgan International and CSUEB have agreed to form a collaborative relationship to allow students from Morgan International's locations earn academic extension credit from CSUEB for certain approved accounting and business courses taught by Morgan International. The goal of this collaborative relationship is to support the ability of students at Morgan International to obtain academic extension credit for the requisite units to sit for the Certified Public Accountant (CPA) exam. All student affairs and instruction are administered and provided by Morgan International.

PS: Please reach out to your local office for more information regarding the extension credits.
